

PRESIDENT WILSON AND PARTY IN THE TWIN CITIES TODAY

Arrived at 9 This Morning and Was Met by the Governor and the Mayors and Wives

Was Driven to the Capitol Where He Addressed the Legislature at 10 O'clock

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Sept. 9.—President Wilson and party arrived in St. Paul at 9 A. M. Not a very large crowd gathered around the depot. Military and civil police kept the crowd back. Several companies of military and home guards escorted the presidential party to the capitol. Governor and Mrs. Burnquist, Mayor Hodgson of St. Paul and Mayor Meyers of Minneapolis with their wives boarded the president's car to welcome them.

There was considerable delay at the station when the train pulled in because the automobiles that were to take the party to the capitol were not on hand. The president and Mrs. Wilson were cheered as they appeared on the back platform. Mrs. Wilson carried a large bouquet of flowers.

The president and party started for the capitol in about fifteen minutes in automobiles arriving at 9:45. There was a great deal of hand clapping but little cheering until they reached the capitol. A great cheer went up when the president appeared up over the hill. Mrs. Wilson sat smiling beside the president. A brief reception followed in Governor Burnquist's office and the president went up to the house chamber to address a joint session of Minnesota legislature.

Speak to Legislators

State Capitol, St. Paul, Sept. 9.—Ratification of the peace treaty is essential to the settling down of the world conditions which will tend to bring down the cost of living, President Wilson today told a special session of the Minnesota legislature.

The president appeared in a formal attire with frock coat and tall hat. Before Wilson entered the house chamber the chaplain prayed for the personal safety of the president on his speaking tour.

W. I. Nolan called the joint session to order. The president entered the chamber at 10:14. He received a noisy welcome from the legislators. Governor Burnquist republican, made the introduction speech. The applause for Wilson lasted one minute and forty-five seconds. He began speaking at 10:18.

"The cost of living is primarily due to loss of man power in war and demoralization of industry," he said. "Factories must again be devoted to peace manufacturing. This process cannot begin until real peace is assured by ratification of the peace treaty and the world begins to settle down. There are other methods by opening up food hoards. It is necessary to look with 'sympathetic eyes' at some of the processes which retard distribution.

"Labor is at present not satisfied with its relations with the employer. This condition is world wide," he declared, and mentioned the labor section of the peace treaty as a means of ending the stress of dissatisfaction.

The legislators listened for the most part leaning forward in their seats to hear better. The president argued that all should help the world get on its feet, so trade could be re-established. The senators who are opposing the league of nations are afflicted with "just downright ignorance," he said. There was hand clapping and a few cheers and Mrs. Wilson who sat in the gallery smiled. "America must play its part in the world," Wilson said, "and it must play this part whether inside or on the curb.

America has greater world responsibilities now, the president asserted. He finished speaking at 10:45. He told an anecdote or two to emphasize his points and there was considerable laughter.

He started for the St. Paul hotel immediately after his speech to have lunch there with Gov. Burnquist.

The greatest military turnout that has greeted the president on his trip was drawn up before the capitol. About one thousand troops from Minneapolis and St. Paul were there. He paused for a moment to look over the panorama of St. Paul visible from the capitol. He walked slowly down the broad steps to his automobile. The crowds continued cheering. The block near the hotel was packed with people and the applause grew steadily greater until the president entered the hotel.

Goes to Minneapolis

The president and party left the Saint Paul hotel at 2:15 this afternoon for Minneapolis by automobile carrying the party. They will be met at the Gateway park in Minneapolis by national guardsmen and escorted to the armory where the president this afternoon will deliver his first public address in the Twin Cities.

Canadian Arguments Against Peace Treaty

(By United Press)

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 9.—Ratification of the peace treaty by Canada will commit this country to foreign wars and may conceivably lead up to the situation where Canada will be allied against her mother land according to arguments in the House of Commons, said D. D. McKenzie, leader of the opposing party in the House. Canada entered the war on her own volition, he said, and should be content to remain in the same position regarding her participation in future wars. He declared that ratification of the treaty carried with it acceptance of the league of nations with the troublesome article 10 obligating the signatories to maintain the integrity of all other signatory nations. Canada would have to take up arms against her mother land, he said, if she ratified the peace treaty.

"Our Country First" Conference Held in Chicago

(By United Press)

Chicago, Sept. 9.—A resolution calling for more "experienced hands" to handle governmental affairs, for interference in public affairs by prying investigators, and for a better understanding between employers and employees, were to be presented to the "Our Country First" conference here today.

TEN HURT IN RAIL CRASH

Fourteen Tanks, Filled With Oil, and Coach Derailed

Rapid City, S. D., Sept. 8.—Ten persons were injured when fourteen tankers filled with oil and one passenger coach were derailed near here. The passenger coach was overturned. This is said to be the first accident in which any one was injured on this division in seven years.

MEXICAN BANDITS CAUGHT

Property of Yank Gobs Taken With Assaults

Washington, Sept. 8.—The State department received a dispatch from the embassy at Mexico City yesterday announcing that the Mexicans who held up and robbed American sailors from the monitor Cheyenne in the Tampico district some weeks ago had been caught and are being held at Tampico.

Some of the personal belongings of the sailors were recovered.

Three Killed in Strike Riot

Foreign Strikers Attempt to Prevent 150 Americans From Returning to Work

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 9.—United Press)—Three foreigners are dead two are dying and five wounded as an outcome of rioting by striking workmen of the Standard Steel Car company on strike for six weeks.

The rioting broke out at 6:30 this morning when 400 foreigners with one uniformed soldier carrying an American flag marched through the streets in an attempt to prevent 150 American employees from returning to work at the plant. Police met them and told them to disband. They opened fire on the police who returned the volley killing three. Americans returned to work in a body. They were machinists, electricians and other skilled laborers. At nine o'clock the police had the situation in hand.

Foreign Banking Bill Passes Senate

Washington, Sept. 9.—The senate today passed the Edge bill authorizing the organization of a foreign banking corporation under the supervision of the Federal Reserve board.

Belgian Cardinal Will Arrive Today

New York, Sept. 9.—Cardinal Mercier is expected to arrive on the transport Northern Pacific at Hoboken at 5:20 this afternoon.

Steel and Rail Men to Decide Strike Policy

Former Give No Indications of Intention; Latter Await Hines' Statement

Washington, Sept. 8.—Representatives of 23 international unions connected with the steel industry would give no indication here tonight of the action to be taken at tomorrow's conference. The meeting is an outgrowth of union efforts to unionize the steel industry and of the denial by Judge Gary of the United States Steel corporation of a hearing of the union representatives.

The reply of President Wilson to the telegram of President Gompers asking that Mr. Wilson intercede to persuade the United States Steel corporation to hear the union representatives probably will have an important bearing on tomorrow's conference.

Detroit, Sept. 6.—Definite action by the end of this week on the threatened strike is expected of the convention of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers, which opened its sessions here today.

The membership has already voted power to the executive committee to call a continent-wide strike of the 600,000 men in these crafts unless wage demands and working agreements asked of the United States railroad administration and the Canadian government are granted.

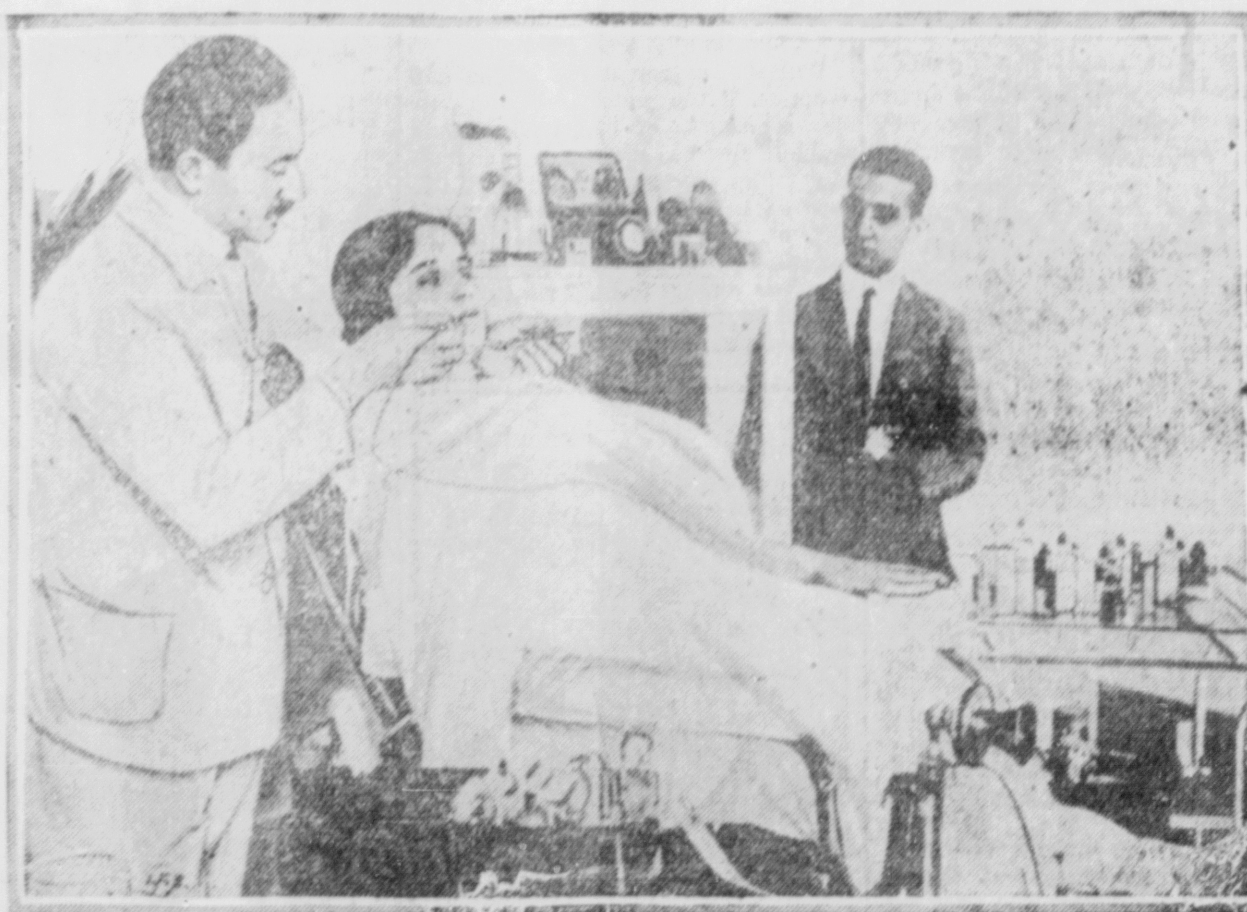

On Friday the convention after hearing the report of the national committee which presented the demands of the brotherhood to Director General Hines, will discuss the wage question from every angle, including its relationship to living costs.

Answer from the railroad administration is expected by Friday. The delegates anticipated today that Mr. Hines, who addresses the convention Wednesday, will then state the administration's stand. The men are firm in their determination, brotherhood officers state, not to accept compromise.

Steel Workers Gathering at Washington to Take Strike Vote

Washington, Sept. 8.—Representing workmen in all mill centers, presidents of 24 steel and metal unions were arriving here today for a secret strike vote meeting. The meeting was scheduled to begin late this afternoon. Letters and telegrams from President Wilson to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be the first business taken up. Although the message has not been made public, the president has taken action that will cause the steel men to delay calling the strike at least until Oct. 6, the same date of the industrial conference called by President Wilson at Washington.

PRESIDENT'S EFFORTS FOR THE COVENANT ARE INEFFECTIVE

No Protests are Being Sent to the Senate Because of the President's Efforts

Will Accept Reservations Only as Last Resort

By L. C. MARTIN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 9.—Democratic senators will accept reservations to the peace treaty only as the last resort, Senator Hitchcock declared today. At the same time Hitchcock said he supposed he would have to accept reservations in the end if there are no other ways to get ratification for the peace treaty.

Hitchcock believes that ratification is now favored by democratic senators, who he declared, are standing with the president on the pact. "Dear the amendment is my slogan now," Hitchcock declared.

Treaty Opponents Will Stump the West

(By United Press)

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Opponents of the peace treaty and league of nations tomorrow will begin an invasion of the central west. The opening gun in the central west will be fired in Chicago. Senator Hiram Johnson and Senator Wm. Borah will divide honors on the speaking program. Senator McCormick has been made chairman of the meeting.

Miners Solicited to Endorse Plumb Plan

(By United Press)

MILL CITY HAS $150,000 FIRE

1,000 Persons Driven Out by Factory Blaze

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 8.—Fire which broke out at 11 p. m. yesterday destroyed the two story sheet iron warehouse of the Minneapolis Sash and Door company, 962 Central avenue, at a loss estimated at $150,000.

At least 1,000 persons were driven from their homes by the smoke and the fear that their homes would catch fire. Sparks, flying from the building, ignited twelve houses nearby, but firemen prevented the flames from spreading.

The warehouse was filled with a large stock of sashes and doors and various kinds of mill work. The seasoned wood gave the flames a chance to gain rapid headway before the firemen could get the conflagration under control.

A high wind fanned the flames and for a time it appeared as though the entire industrial section in that block would go up in smoke.

Marching Miners Return on Train

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 8.—The miners who marched on Logan county yesterday to unionize the mines there returned to their homes today by special train.

Opposition Senators Begin Campaign Over Same Territory in Opposition

By FRED S. FERGUSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) Washington, Sept. 9.—If President Wilson has counted upon strong reaction in the territories in which he has spoken in the form of telegrams and letters to the senate urging that opposition to the treaty cease, he has not made his trip a success.

With this situation Senators Johnson, Borah and McCormick left this afternoon to open a unique series of long distance debates with the president. As Johnson swings along the president's trail he will take up the covenant point by point to argue the sacrifice of Americanism it represents.

Borah will go a different route but will hammer on the same subject. Borah said the only letter he had received was from a business man in St. Louis unknown to him, who urged the senate to keep up the fight. He said the president talked mostly on generalities in St. Louis. The writer did not believe he had impressed that locality with the belief that the treaty was impeachable.

Senator Borah today renewed a demand for a referendum on the treaty. He charged the president's going before the people as virtually a sham battle. "People cannot do anything after they heard the discussion," he said.

Gompers' Father Dies in Boston

(By United Press)

Boston, Sept. 9.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived here today after losing a race with death. His father, Solomon Gompers, age 91, died last night at the home of his daughter. The aged man began life as a cigarmaker in London, later going to New York. He became totally blind in 1893.

MOB SLAYS TWO NEGROES

Two Blacks Charged With Murder Shot by Mob

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 8.—Two negroes charged with murder were taken from the city jail here shortly after midnight and lynched. A mob of fifty men stormed the jail in search of a negro who was being held for assaulting a little white girl, but who had been secretly sent to St. Augustine.

Finding their intended victim gone the crowd seized the two negroes charged with the murder recently of George Dubose, white, took them to the outskirts of the city in automobiles and shot them to death. They then placed ropes about the bodies and dragged them through the city streets. One body was dropped in front of a leading hotel. The other has not been found.

Silverite a New Metal.

A new development in the alloying of aluminum with other metals has just been accomplished by the production of "silverite." This metal is something entirely new and is composed of a mixture of aluminum and copper, zinc and steel in varying proportions, according to requirements. The alloying of steel with aluminum is somewhat startling and at first thought seems to be impossible, yet it is successful.

FOR BETTER ROADS

CHANGE IDEAS ON HIGHWAYS

Non-Motoring Public No Longer Regards Good Roads as Speedways for Fortunate Neighbors.

The public's conception of "good roads" has undergone a radical change in the last two years.

Prior to the entry of the United States into the world war, the non-motoring American public, more often than not, thought good roads were advocated chiefly for the benefit of their more fortunate neighbors who owned and drove their own motor cars. writes E. A. Williams, Jr., president of a large motor truck company. They were inclined to regard good roads laws as class legislation and were unwilling for the most part to lend either financial or moral support to the construction and upkeep of something from which they derived no direct benefits so far as they could see.

The war merely hastened what leaders of the industry had foreseen for several years; it furnished the setting and the conditions which enabled the truck to establish itself as a factor in the economic life of the country.

The non-motoring public no longer looks upon good roads as "speedways" for the motoring "aristocracy." It has come to realize that motor trucks are essential as transportation factors, and that good roads are necessary to the efficient operation of trucks. Its vision has been broadened; it sees the advantages and benefits which accrue from a combination of these factors—benefits which have a direct bearing upon the economic conditions of the community.

It sees the farm brought, one might say, to the very table of the consumer; it sees an ultimate decrease in food prices; and, those who pause to consider the matter further, see the ever expanding range of possibilities of the truck and its ally, good roads.

With the universal recognition and adoption of the motor truck the public's conception of how roads should be built also has undergone a change. Heretofore there has been a vast difference between the average man's idea of good roads and that of the experienced engineer. The average man was content to build for the present; the engineer, as a result of past and not altogether satisfactory experience, ence, knows and has known the importance of building for the future as well as the present.

Motor Truck Carrying Big Load Over Improved Road.

The first thing a railroad does after obtaining a right-of-way, as everyone knows, is to build a roadbed and lay tracks. That roadbed is put in to stay. The track, which corresponds to the surface of the highway, is built of the most substantial and practical material to be had.

The railroad officials, however, do not expect this roadbed and track to last forever without attention. Long ago they learned that the only way to assure safety and durability is to anticipate depreciation and make constant repairs.

That is just what we are coming to in road building. For years it has been customary for county engineers to direct such operations but for the most part their work has been hampered by lack of funds, and inadequate force or by limited legislation and more or less red tape. There are some states in which farmers are still working out their road tax by the day, hauling gravel or stone in a more or less haphazard fashion for the construction of roads; upon their efforts and those of a limited force of hired workers depends the maintenance of the community's highways.

FIND WORK FOR EX-SOLDIERS

Eleven States Plan Vital Highway Improvements This Summer—Fighters Preferred.

Thousands of soldiers coming back to civil life with a preference for outdoor work will find employment in building highways in their home states. Reports from state highway departments of eleven states say that 45,300 men will be employed on their roads this year and that soldiers will be given the preference.

Lacemaking in China.

Foreign missionaries in Chefoo, Shanghai, Foochow, Amoy and Swatow have introduced lacemaking among the Chinese women, and considerable lace has been exported from time to time. Silk, linen and cotton thread is used in the other places. The lace is made more cheaply than is possible elsewhere because of the low wages paid in China, but a lack of enterprise in changing patterns to meet changing tastes and fashions abroad prevents the industry from assuming larger proportions.

Strikes Take Place in Japan.

Labor troubles are taking place in Japan. At a gold mine in Shizuoka prefecture, 100 miners went on strike recently and, armed with pickaxes and shovels, raided the residences of the mine officials and destroyed or damaged the buildings and furniture. The local police force suppressed the rioters. The cause of the trouble is dissatisfaction over wages.

Over 1,000 women and girls employed in a big silk factory at Uyeda have gone on strike for higher wages. Similar occurrences are reported from various parts of the empire. One cause of the unrest is the soaring of rice, which is now higher than last summer when the country was involved in serious rice disturbances.

Wife of Gerard's Private Secretary Asks Police to Help Find $6,000 Necklace

The police of Bernardsville, N. J., have been asked by Mrs. H. Rivington Pyne to aid in the search for a $6,000 pearl necklace. She had visited friends in the nearby mountains and believes that while returning by automobile she dropped the necklace while leaning over the side of the car. Mrs. Pyne's husband was private secretary of James W. Gerard while the latter was ambassador to Germany.

Joys of Tournament Golf.

Wouldn't it make you mad if you were entered in a golf tournament and you started out shooting the little old pill down the line, better than you ever had and finished the first nine holes in the lowest score you had ever made; slipped a little on the second nine, but still had a chance to make a respectable showing, and then on the eighteen hole in the presence of an admiring throng of friends you proceeded to put the pill into the ditch three times and take eleven strokes where five should have been plenty?

Wouldn't it make you mad? Well, the only consolation we know out of that horrible catastrophe is that we remembered even in our rage that there were ladies within hearing distance. We came up smiling out of the ditch, but we sincerely hope the young woman in the pink gown and the big hat who grinned gleefully at us is no mind reader.—Exchange.

It has not seemed of over 100 years completely to silence that particular chapter of French history. As L'Eclair remarks, "Ever since the 8th of June, 1795, the case has settled for us."

THE LUCKY STONE

By ELIZABETH R. GREENE.

Jerry was coming home. Anne's heart sang the words one minute, and sighed them despairingly the next—for what would Uncle Nate say when Jerry told him of their love and future plans?

The troublesome question lay like a cloud upon Anne's happiness, as one by one her busy fingers tucked away exquisitely embroidered linens into the little hope chest in her room.

It was ridiculous to think that the petty quarrel over the loss of a "lucky" stone should wreck her happiness, but Anne knew that her uncle had a reputation for being "set," which, alas, he managed to live fairly well up to.

"But he won't spoil my life, just for an old 'lucky' stone," argued Anne, one day to Aunt Jane; as they sat at their sewing.

Twelve years ago Uncle Nate had purchased at a fair in Buxton a glittering red bauble called a "lucky" stone.

Then one fateful day—Anne had never forgotten it—the magic stone had mysteriously disappeared out of Uncle Nate's pocket.

It had happened the day that he and Jerry's Uncle Cyrus had mowed the south field together. Anne remembered that her uncle had been overcome by the heat and helped to the house by his old pal, Cyrus. Lying on the lounge in the cool living room, Uncle Nate had lapsed into brief unconsciousness. Later that same day he had startled them all by announcing the loss of the "lucky" stone.

Then one dreadful day Uncle Nate, trembling with anger, had stamped into the kitchen and wrathfully declared to Anne and Aunt Jane that "Cyrus had stolen the 'lucky' stone."

Thus matters stood when one May afternoon Anne walked slowly along the dusty road, from a trip in town.

That her uncle would never consent to her marrying Jerry, the nephew of his old enemy, Anne knew only too well; but Jerry, joyous, undaunted Jerry, still confidently believed that Uncle Nate could be "won over."

Absorbed in her thoughts, Anne took the narrow footpath leading across lots to Aunt Jane's, quite unconscious that a tall, khaki-clad figure was hurrying joyously after her.

The third time that Jerry whistled, Anne turned and looked behind her.

"Jerry—where on earth did you come from?" she cried joyously, as her lover flung an arm, wearing two gold service stripes, quickly about her.

"Glad to see me, little girl?" he asked eagerly.

"Yes," breathed Anne, "but—" She turned away her eyes. How could she make him understand the hopelessness of their love?

Jerry, seeing her unhappy face, quickly divined its meaning.

"Don't worry about Uncle Nate, sweetheart," he said cheerily. "I'm going right now to beard the lion—"

So together they crossed the pasture to the field where Uncle Nate was plowing. Here Anne left Jerry to make his way alone to her uncle.

Anne was in the garden when Jerry, white and determined, strode up to her. "You were right, Anne," he said bitterly, "about Uncle Nate—"

"Oh, Jerry, I told you so!" faltered Anne, woman-like. "What did he say?"

"That 'no niece of his should marry the nephew of a thief'—"

Anne nodded. "You see, it's as I told you," she said. "Our only hope is to find the 'lucky' stone—"

"Anne, I'll not give you up for a dozen Uncle Nates. When will you marry me?"

"The day I'm twenty-one," she flashed, catching his spirit.

"But that's a whole year away!" Jerry looked disappointed.

"Yes; but perhaps we'll find the stone before—"

After Jerry had gone, Anne returned to the house. Despite her lover's assuring words, she felt depressed.

Presently soft footsteps sounded outside her door.

Anne's answer was a sob. Then quietly Aunt Jane opened the door and came in. Tenderly she smoothed in silent sympathy Anne's silken hair that had escaped from its pins. There was no need of words between them.

But after Anne had had her "cry" she felt better.

Left alone, Anne proceeded to rearrange her disordered locks. Finding one of the pins missing, and thinking that perhaps it had slipped into the crevice in the back of the lounge she ran her fingers into the opening. Something hard touched her hand. Drawing it forth, a familiar red stone met her astonished gaze.

"The 'lucky' stone!" cried Anne incredulously; remembering suddenly that this was the lounge upon which her uncle had lain the day he had suffered from sunstroke, so long ago. The stone must have fallen from his pocket then and lodged in the lounge, where it had remained hidden all these years.

"You've kept your secret pretty well, old lounge," said Anne aloud, "but I've found you out at last."

Then with joyous steps she ran in search of Uncle Nate, who soon straightened matters with Cyrus, much to the comfort of Anne and Jerry, who together with Aunt Jane, Cyrus and Uncle Nate, celebrated the reunion which had brought boundless joy to all, especially Anne and Jerry.

NICKEL BY NICKEL

Newspaper Man Dribbled His Profit to Beggar.

Little Transaction by Which Scribe Thought He Was to Make $2.65 Didn't End in Just That Desired Way.

"A newspaper friend of mine," said Mr. Gosington, "tells me of an unusual experience he has had, in fact is still having with a beggar."

"He met this beggar first about a year ago. The circumstances attending this first meeting were novel and interesting and my friend wrote a little piece about it which was printed in his newspaper and for which he received $3. As he had given the beggar a nickel he figured that his net profit on this was $2.65. But—"

"A couple of weeks later he again met this beggar, who again asked for a nickel, a request that my friend did not feel warranted in refusing. I don't think he would have refused anyway, my friend being an easy mark for beggars; but having profited by his original transaction with this beggar, he felt impelled to hand over this second nickel promptly, thus reducing his net on this little piece to $2.00."

"It wasn't long before my friend discovered that this beggar lived somewhere in his neighborhood and made that part of the town his quarry; for now he used to meet him here and there by intervals. Not always, by any means, when they met did the beggar approach him; commonly they passed each other as any other two might do, with no sign of recognition; but once in a while the beggar would ask for a nickel, which always my friend gave. In this way in the course of three months he gave up 55 cents, thus reducing the net of that $3 to $2.65. Then my friend had an idea."

"He foresaw that if this went on indefinitely, as there seemed every indication it would do, the beggar would get all of the $3, which to my friend seemed scarcely reasonable. But he did think that an even division would be no more than right to the beggar, and so when the $3 got down to $2.65 he set aside, in his mind, $1.15 as a drawing account to the beggar's credit, and he said to himself that when thus the original fund had been evenly divided he would stop giving and consider that he had done the square thing."

"Well, my friend tells me that, counting a nickel that the beggar drew yesterday, he has now drawn $1.40, so that now it is a question of a very few weeks only, three or four at the utmost, when the beggar will have drawn his full share."

"Then, my friend says, he is going to shut down and keep the rest himself; but what I think he will do will be to keep on paying till the whole three dollars is gone, his original profit being thus wiped out completely. I don't know what he can do then, unless he should write, covering all his experiences with this unusual beggar, another and longer story; moving then to another part of the city."

NEW FORM OF IRON RELIEVES STOMACH TROUBLES

Eat What You Like—Stop Suffering From Acid Stomach—Gas, Pains and Other Forms of Indigestion—Results Almost Immediately

For years physicians have been searching for a form of iron that could be combined with certain other ingredients like pepsin, etc., for use in treating chronic disorders of the digestive tract, mal-assimilation etc., etc. This is sufficient evidence that medicine recognizes the great value of iron for stomach troubles when administered in proper form.

If you have been disappointed with lack of results from pills and tonics and to contain iron you can now understand that the iron was not presented in a form that could be absorbed by the stomach into the system. And therefore could not possibly bring you benefit.

This new form of iron is not prepared by chemists—it is found in Nature itself combined with other highly beneficial medicinal agents. It is quickly absorbed by the system and in sufficient measure to bring results that you can feel in a very short time. Just ask your druggist for Acid Iron Mineral. He will also tell you that stomach troubles are relieved by taking a spoonful in a glass of water three times a day. And for acute conditions like "sour stomach," etc., a single dose will in most cases bring relief. This natural form of iron seems to neutralize the excess acid in the stomach as nothing else in all medicine.

Stomach disorders of long standing where the patient is subject to distress after eating, gulping, headaches, dizziness, etc., yield positively to steady treatment with Acid Iron Mineral.

And don't forget that the general system is strengthened and invigorated owing to the iron content of this great medicine. All druggists cheerfully refund the purchase price if the results are not satisfactory to you in every way.

WHY SPOIL A GOOD RECORD?

(St. Cloud Journal Press)

Brother Halsted of the Brainerd Tribune, avers that he is in favor of good roads and has been persistently and consistently advocating them for 35 years. That is a good record, but why spoil it by knocking the only practical plan anybody has proposed to get the good roads? His lame objection to the Babcock amendment is that the cost of the highways is to be met by the automobiles and his argument is that the automobile "only occasionally use these roads during several months of the year." Drive over any state road in Minnesota and you will meet from 20 to 50 automobiles to one horse drawn vehicle, and it is the automobile that destroys dirt roads. Two thousand dollars a mile would construct roads that would stand up for years if the automobiles were kept off them, but when they are subjected to motor-driven cars and trucks, they will be filled with ruts and holes and bumps in a few days. The state has attempted to keep them in passable condition by caretakers, and this is not only an expensive proposition, but it is impossible to maintain the roads in good condition. As a matter of justice and fair dealing, why should not the automobile and trucks that destroy the roads, be taxed to make better roads?

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE

The officers of the largest chain of retail cigar stores in the country have concluded that the observance of Sunday is not only good religion but good business, and announce that their store will hereafter be closed all day Sunday. Their decision will prove profitable. Scientists have several times conducted tests to show that a man who stops work one day in seven does more work on the other six days and lasts longer. Tailors tell us that a suit wears better if it hangs in the closet a day or two each week instead of working every day; and even locomotives, we understand, have their Sabbath in the roundhouse. Governor Smith of New York made, as a member of the assembly, a famous one-line speech on the subject. The bill under discussion proposed to allow Sunday work by women in canneries. "Nowhere in the Bible do I read," said Mr. Smith, "six days shalt thou labor—except in canneries." Moses was a prophet, not a captain of industry, so his code progressed slowly in the hard, calculating world. But, unquestionably, it does progress—Canners.

WHAT THEY FOUGHT FOR

Bronze tablets have an enduring dignity. Monuments can be, and often are, worthy and impressive. Surely no one would care to criticize the community which has elected to commemorate its gratitude to its heroes in either bronze or stone. But these communities that have not yet made a decision might well ask themselves first just what it was for which these young men gave their lives. They hoped they were fighting to make this a better world for men and women to pass their lives in, and for children to grow up in. That hope has other mediums of expression. Parks, hospitals, playgrounds, libraries—all these are dedicated in its spirit. And what memorial to their death could, after all, be more fitting than investment in the lives for which they died?—Exchange.

AMUSEMENTS

Best Theatre Today

In "An Innocent Adventuress," a "personal picture directed by Robert Vignola which will be presented at the Best theatre today. It is said that Vivian Martin scores an artistic triumph in her characterization of "Lindy," a sweet unsophisticated little girl who has been brought up never to commit a wrong or tell a lie. It is a delightful role and is handled by Miss Martin in a charming and artistic manner.

This girl was innocent and unacquainted with the paths of crime that she thought that she had committed a felony when she merely held up a letter from a domineering landlady addressed to a poor family across the street who were in desperate straits and which she was certain was an order for the family to vacate the premises.

A delightful romance is woven into the story and also a strong dramatic situation which shows how the simple innocence of this little girl results in the regeneration of a young man who had once been a thief and who was about to yield again to temptation and pursue the forbidden paths of crime.

Frank E. Garbutt is responsible for the excellent photography and an all star supporting cast, including Lloyd Hughes, Edythe Chapman, Gertrude Norman, Jane Wolff, Tom D. Bates, Hal Clements, James Farley and Spottiswoode Aitken, render a splendid performance in their various characterizations.

At the Best Tomorrow and Thursday

"The Unknown Love," starring Dolores Cassinelli, with E. K. Lincoln, which will be shown as a Pathe Special at the Best theatre Wednesday and Thursday has been characterized as one of the greatest masterpieces of emotional creation, whether of written sheet, the spoken stage or the silent drama. Twenty thousand women of the United States and Canada have paid tribute to it by suggesting a title which would fully comprehend the big theme. It is splendidly different from ordinary love stories and has the boldness and courage of a great imagination, sure of itself, dealing in a new way, with a theme as old as creation.

It is a woman's problem that all women, no matter of what condition, will understand and delight to see unfolded. "The Unknown Love," as a title, accurately epitomizes it. There may be another title more fitting but no one of thousands suggested has yet given voice to it. Leonce Perret, the author, producer and director, heartily has been congratulated by critics and reviewers for the charm of his animated titles and the atmosphere of balance and perfection with which he has endowed this most beautiful of his ambitious productions.

NATURE'S MIRROR

are lively scraps, quick shooting, all the characteristic incidents of life as it was lived in the yesterday of the Southwest.

Those who care for action piled in action, true love and the code of honor of the far west; who revel in scenes which show the everlasting hills and the deserts that stretch into miles in every direction; for the strange and strenuous life of the cowboys, the communities where men live and die hard and are either very honest or very evil—will find it all in "Square Deal Sanderson."

Ann Little is leading woman and the only woman in the cast. Lambert Hillyer wrote the scenario from Charles Alden Selzer's story in the He and Mr. Hart directed.

What's in A Name.

Naming a plant or flower after a celebrity is a delicate compliment, and one that no doubt at times adds something to the market value. But there are exceptions. That beautiful variety of the lobelia, for instance, known as "Emperor William," would perhaps hold up its imperial head a little more proudly just now if it had had a more fortunate christening.

Stray thoughts on these lines may have been flickering in the mind of a vendor in a London market-place as a likely looking buyer, while examining a box of the old favorite, asked what variety it was. Without deranging the muscle of an eyelid the coster (and she was a "lady," too) replied: "Douglas 'Alg' Four-and-a-tanner a box."

History and Material Wealth.

It is time we remembered that history does not concern herself about material wealth—that the life-blood of a nation is not that yellow tide which fluctuates in the arteries of trade—that its true revenues are religion, justice, sobriety, magnanimity, and the fair amenities of art.—Lowell.

SCHOOL BOARD'S BUDGET FOR 1920

Increase of $7,000 Over 1919 Because of Higher Salaries, Materials and W. Brainerd School

SCHOOL FOR DEAF STARTED

New Teachers Engaged, Trades & Labor Assembly Communication on Book Buying Taken Up

Increases in salaries of teachers and costs of material, ranging from 15 to 25 per cent, the building of the West Brainerd school, the keeping up of Brainerd schools in first class condition, have combined to cause an increase of $7,000 in the Brainerd school budget for 1920.

The finance committee, George D. LaBar, H. A. Kantz and S. E. Engbreton reported this estimate for the ensuing year: Salaries, $64,875; fuel, $5,500; repairs, $4,000; insurance, $1,350; rentals, $1,500; printing, $100; supplies, $3,000; new equipment, $600; miscellaneous, $900; interest on temporary loans, $200; interest on bonds other than state, $3,325; fund for payment of bonds, $2,200; fund for balance of cost of school site and building, West Brainerd, $2,000. Total of $90,550 less estimated available resources of $22,050, leaves a balance of $68,500 to be met.

All members of the board were present Tuesday evening except Rev. E. G. Carlson, President R. R. Wise presided. The board ratified the action starting the school for deaf which commenced Monday with Miss A. Head as instructor.

The resignation of Miss Clara Olson of the Lowell building, who taught last year, was accepted.

A communication from the Trades & Labor assembly relative to purchasing books from the American Book Company was read, the assembly contending the book company was on the unfair list. Board Member S. A. Stanley of the third ward was asked to report back to the assembly the situation as explained by Supt. W. C. Cobb that the board had not purchased largely from the company the last two or three years and none this year.

The board ratified the action of the teachers committee in engaging Miss Pierce and Miss Hagberg for the high school, Miss Rogstad as grade principal, Miss Merwin and Miss Sunwall as grade mixed.

The furnace and teachers committee is to review the teachers salary list and make such adjustments as it may consider necessary.

Quarterly reports of the treasurer for the quarters ending April 30 and July 31 were O. K. by the finance committee and accepted, also a report on the satisfactory condition of the secretary's books.

The health and sanitation committee was empowered to employ a city and school nurse for four months providing the city appropriated half to cover expenses. S. A. Stanley appealed for play equipment at the Mill school. The matter will be taken up with the park board.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES OF TODAY

The baseball field at Lexington park proved a Waterloo for Brainerd.

True, Brainerd should have won that game. But the fans who will persist in demanding victory every time, should figure that Brainerd in such case was lined up to battle the Zenith All Stars at Duluth next Sunday, was challenged further by the Gordons, champion amateurs of St. Paul and the thing would have kept on until Brainerd would have to battle Cincinnati. Brainerd got a lot of glory and advertising this year. Next year, if things go right, the city of Brainerd will have a grassy infield like the big league parks. A new ball park on level ground is a crying necessity.

Regular forms of application for the position of census enumerator in the several subdivisions of the Sixth District, Minnesota, will shortly be mailed to all applicants for this position.

The counties of Aitkin, Beltrami, Benton, Cass, Crow Wing, Hubbard, Morrison, Sherburne, Stearns, Todd, and Wadena constitute the Sixth District.

The positions will be open to both men and women and the following classes are particularly desired:

(a) In rural districts: Crop reporters for the U. S. department of agriculture; officers and leading workers in farmers organizations, live stock associations, cooperative creameries, etc.; progressive farmers, their sons and daughters; and especially young men and women who have attended agricultural colleges or agricultural experiment stations. (b) School teachers who are not employed as such at the time, or who may be able to secure temporary leave. (c) Persons who have passed Federal, state or municipal civil service examinations for clerical positions or for mail carrier. (d) Persons who are well acquainted with the people in their district and are familiar with the making out of reports and the conduct of official business.

In no case will any person who is directly or indirectly concerned in the assessment of property for taxation, or in the collection of taxes be designated as enumerator.

The compensation has not been fixed, but the per capita rates will be such that an enumerator of average industry can earn from four to six dollars per day during the period of enumeration.

Address all applications to Thomas W. Swinson, Supervisor of Census, Bemidji, Minn.

J. G. DAWES' PLAN SELLING FARMS

In These Days of Over Inflation of Land Values, Mr. Dawes has the Safest Selling Plan

NO OPTIONS ARE ALLOWED

Substantial First Payments are Required on Land, Owner Continues Tenancy for Period

In these days of frenzied speculation in lands, of the boosting of land values beyond reasonable figures, a slump is bound to follow, reacting on seller, buyer and agents. Down in Iowa conservative bankers are refusing to make loans on inflated valuations and when settlement day comes around next March, many a man thought he had sold his farm at a high price will discover that the deferred payments had not been made.

J. G. Dawes of the Dawes Land Co. of Brainerd has a plan which is conservative and just alike to buyer and seller, protecting especially the farmer wishing to sell his land.

Mr. Dawes frowns on any small payments and shuns anything looking like a small payment option. Of what use is the contract setting a high value on the land when only a small payment is allowed to tie up the land like an option, said Mr. Dawes.

For example on a good 160 acre farm, selling at $100 in acre or less, at least $1000 earnest money must be paid down by the buyer at the time of purchase. An additional payment, varying in amount, follows when the papers are completed. Any balances are paid, either under contract or mortgage as the buyer and seller agree upon.

Possession is usually given March 1 following the sale. That gives the farmer now upon the farm a chance to feed his crop and stock over to next spring when stock sells better after being wintered.

This method of sale is one which would certainly meet with favor among the Iowa bankers for it certainly does in Brainerd and vicinity. The farm is assured of tenancy, of values being kept up, and at legitimate figures, does away with crazy speculation or inflated values and provides against the reaction which certainly follows doing business on a small cash option plan.

NOTICE

Attention is called to Ordinance No. 153 of the city of Brainerd, which prohibits riding on the sidewalk with a bicycle. The dangers of such practice are apparent, and prosecutions for violations will follow.

"RALLY DAY" AT THE ZION CHURCH

Zion Evangelical Church Plans a Rally of All Church Organizations, Ladies' Aid, Etc.

PRAYER MEETING, 50 PRESENT

On Sunday all Departments of the Church Will Rally Their Forces at the Meeting

Zion Evangelical church of North-east Brainerd will observe "Rally Day" next Sunday.

The activities of this celebration extends throughout this and next week. The Ladies' Aid meeting this Thursday at the home of Mrs. Worden, 1007 Sixth Ave. partakes of the nature of a rally. So also the prayer meeting following next Sunday will be a rally. Prayer meeting is expected to draw an attendance of 50.

On Sunday all departments of the church will rally their forces. The members and friends from near and far are to be favored with a rare treat in the church on Sunday evening, when the local talent augmented by the Long Lake orchestra and others will render a musical program.

The pastor invites and urges a hearty participation in all these services.

GAME LAWS

Chickens Cannot be Hunted Until Sept. 16, 1922—Changes in Game Laws

There are a number of game laws that hunters will need to be familiar with in order not to run the risk of being called to task by the game warden. The Glenwood Herald gives its readers a few pointers on the law which it obtained from a game warden which we take the liberty of reproducing. There are a few changes in the law as passed by the last legislature and while all our subscribers have a copy of the new laws it will not be amiss to again call their attention to the closed season for hunting prairie chickens.

The season for these birds is closed until September 16, 1922. It is not only unlawful to shoot these birds, but is also a violation of the law to ship or have in one's possession any of these birds during the closed season. It does not matter whether a person has shot the bird or not, a person can be arrested only for having one in one's possession.

To shoot the game from any motor vehicle is unlawful. Guns must be unloaded, taken apart, or contained in a case, when carried in an auto. All trappers must have a license except when they are on their own land.

To dig mink or muskrat or use dogs in taking them is unlawful. Persons are permitted to shoot birds that are in season from 30 minutes before sunrise until sunset.

Any person who is convicted of violating a license that has been issued to such person will lose his license. The license will immediately become null and void and such persons can not receive another license for a period of one year.

Automobiles when used in pursuing, taking, attempting to take or conceal any game unlawfully are contraband and subject to seizure. The game warden has the right, not only to take the game that the owner of the automobile holds unlawfully, but he can also take the car.

Big Private Telephone Exchange.

The size of the private telephone exchange grows with the erection of every hotel or office building of any considerable proportions. The largest ever constructed is that of a New York hotel which has been recently opened to the public. It occupies 3,165 square feet of floor space, having an operating room 110 feet long by 15 feet wide, a terminal room 30 feet long and 25 feet wide, a restroom 23 feet by 15 feet and a locker and wash-room 30 feet by 14 feet. The operating force consists of one chief operator, one assistant chief operator, eight supervisors and 110 attendants. The switchboard consists of twenty-three positions. Thirteen positions are equipped with telautographs used for paging and announcing only. The switchboard has a capacity of 5,340 extensions and 180 trunks. The hotel has telephone service in each of its 2,200 rooms, and there are forty public telephone booths served by four switchboards connected with the main switchboard. The following gives some idea of a few of the items which make up part of the telephone system: 630 fuses, 1,170 condensers, 2,400 relays, 5,250 lamps, 38,500 jacks, 750,000 soldered connections, 7,926,900 feet of wire.

Konig Publishes Deutschland Tale

By CARL D. GROAT

(United Press Correspondent)
Berlin (By Mail)—Though allied warships lingered outside Norfolk, Va., and fishing boats with nets sought to entangle him, Capt. Paul Konig, master of the U-boat Deutschland made his escape safely on his first journey to America.

He has just written an account of the outward voyage in the Bremen Nachrichten.

"About two or three days after our arrival in Baltimore (August, 1916) came news that three cruisers were plying at the entrance to Chesapeake Bay," he wrote. "A few days later we had information that two English and two French cruisers were operating at the entrance, in the daytime, but withdrew farther out at night. These cruisers apparently knew the path we took in and were anxious to catch us on the outward journey. We learned, too, that some fishing boats, that ordinarily did not remain in the channel, had stopped there and put out a very long net, hoping to entangle our gears therein. I ascertained, too, that a firm in Boston had supplied a dozen microphones to English account. What a triumph it would have been for the English if they could have captured us."

Konig declared that he was a bit skeptical about American neutrality and fearful lest the Americans should not prevent the British from coming within the three mile limit.

On the first of August, the Deutschland took its departure. Konig said that he had hoped to be able to avoid press boats but had not been able to do so. However, he rejoiced as night came on, and he lost his press pursuers. However when he reached New port News he was hailed by a press boat.

That night he made for the three mile limit, submerging and emerging several times. He spied fishing boats in the distance, and altered his course. Also an American destroyer passed overhead. Having taken a new course when he spied the fishing boats, he turned on his electrical engines, and when he ascertained that there were no sounds of enemy craft, he headed out to sea at some distance from where the fishing boats were stationed.

"In the little messroom of the Deutschland, I drank a bottle of wine with the officers and engineers, which had been given us by German American friends," he concluded. "We drank to a safe journey. Twenty-two days later we came into the port of Bremen safely."

Konig's plan for outwitting the press boats at Baltimore is believed to have been an attempt to get the Baltimore city officials to hold up the boats on the plea that they had not had proper inspection. The Washington administration, however, notified the Baltimore authorities not to halt the press boats.

GET STENOS BY PHONE

When the manager of the Clay County Farmers Bureau at Moorhead, N. D., Minn., wanted a capable stenographer he simply phoned the Dakota Business College at Fargo. Miss Marion McKellar got the position.

Attorney Howard J. Hess, of Moorhead, also phoned the same college for a stenographer recently. Miss Ruth Bramer was sent post-haste, and had no difficulty in evidencing her capability.

Full Business Courses are now starting. For particulars, address F. L. Watkins, 805 Front Street, Fargo, N. D.

Almost a Shadow, Afraid to Eat

"My son-in-law was so bad from stomach trouble that he was reduced to almost a shadow and was afraid to eat anything, as all food caused bloating of gas which pressed against his heart, worrying him very much. Our druggist persuaded him to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and in two months he looked fine, can eat anything and works hard every day." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. ## KING OF ALL "RAINMAKERS"

Secret of Success of Solly Greencup, Who Is Well Remembered in the West, Was Simple.

Given an ingenious mind and an eye to business, a live man can make money out of almost any old thing.

Perhaps you remember the extraordinary success scored some years ago by Solly Greencup, the rainmaker. If not, you can read his record in a portfolio of newspaper clippings collected all the way from Nome to San Diego, from eastern Oregon to western Kansas.

Solly Greencup, indeed, occupied for a while a position unique in the annals of meteorology. Scientists might doubt and cynics might scoff, but whenever Solly went after the rain clouds he always got 'em. Moreover he didn't work on "the heads-I-win, tails-you-lose" principle of some other rainmakers. Solly Greencup, when he once decided he could produce rain in a given district, always backed his opinion with hard cash. If he asked the farmers to put up $1,000 for an inch of rain, he put up another $1,000 himself as a forfeit in case he failed. And he always won.

Greencup never explained his methods. All the farmers wanted was the rain. All Greencup wanted was the money. With the result both were satisfied. His apparatus consisted of a flag pole, an electric battery, a kite with a metal tail and an air balloon filled with a mysterious gas. If scientists demanded the reason for these contrivances, he shook his head and smiled.

Sometimes Greencup would have to stay a long time in a locality before he could find the exact combination necessary to coax the wet forces into action. Sometimes he had to confess that the dries were too strong for him. But as soon as he posted his forfeit and set up his apparatus the desired moisture followed in a few days.

Once in Elsinore valley he gave the ground a good soaking for a paltry $2,500, thus saving a $1,000,000 grain crop. Of course he made a tidy fortune, yet at the time no one considered his charges exorbitant. And everybody admitted he was a good sport. As he grew wealthy Greencup never gave himself frills nor assumed the title of "professor." These things were afterward remembered to his credit.

A few years ago Greencup went permanently out of the rainmaking business. In a street car accident he lost his left foot, which had to be amputated above the ankle. After that for love or money he refused to experiment with the weather.

When the secret of his success was finally revealed some carping moralists called him make-believe. He never claimed, like another famous personage, to be in partnership with the Almighty. But at least he had done something that nobody in the world had ever done before.

He had capitalized a corn.

Concerning Names.
Said the observing cuss, "When an actress starts out to make a name for herself she has to think up a good one to start with before she makes it."

ST. PAUL REVIEW OF GAME

St. Paul Pioneer Press Features Stillwater-Brainerd "World's" Series

*****
Note—In last paragraph
St. Paul Pioneer Press refers to Benda's hit and base running. It should be Sig. Sheffo.
*****
(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

Nearly 5,000 fans saw Stillwater win the "little world's series" from Brainerd at Lexington park Sunday afternoon, the Frison City aggregation taking a keenly played battle from the northerners, 3-1.

There was noise and enthusiasm apiently, first from the large Brainerd contingent and later from the exultant Stillwater rooters, who had things all their own way after the second inning, in which Pitcher
Wood was driven from the slab.

Wood was succeeded by crafty old Roy Patterson. Pat stopped Stillwater, but as his own team failed off Morse after the opening inning he could not save the day for his team.

Stillwater's victory gives that team
the independent baseball championship of the state, through having taken two of the three games played with the Central Minnesota league champions.

The Interstate league champions were supported by about 2,500 rooters who were brought over by special car service.

Morse Invincible After First

Brainerd's offensive work was confined to the opening inning, which Diedrich, former University of Minnesota captain, opened with a single to right. Schmidt sacrificed him to second and Pratt scored him with a clean double to left. Thereafter Earl Morse was invincible, though he had some close calls. In the pinches his spitter mowed down the opposition with great effect, as his total of seven strike-outs shows.
Most of his whiffs came when they were needed.

Wood retired Stillwater in order in the first inning, but in the second Klein singled to center, Wellman sacrificed and Carlisle tripped to left.

Roy Patterson was called upon at this point and went in almost cold.
Morse hit to Benda, who let his hot ground drive slip through his hands, and Carlisle scored. After that Patterson held Stillwater scoreless, but it was too late.

Brainerd Band on Deck

The rooting was a feature of the contest and, though those from Brainerd were greatly outnumbered they more than made up for the deficiency with their municipal band of thirty-two pieces, which blared loyalty every time there seemed to be any chance of the Stillwater aggregation going up into the air.

The game was called at the end of the first half of the eighth inning, the 6 P. M. time limit intervening to stop further pastiming.

In this frame Brainerd made a belated rally, which was wasted because of a "boner" by Benda. Russ opened the inning with a pretty bunt and Cook fouled to Wines. Bessemer walked and Benda sent a short single to center. The Brainerd shortstop, not noticing that Bessemer was on second, tore for the keystone sack on the throw to the plate and there was an amusing run-down, during most of which Schroeder ran around with the ball in his hand undecided as to which base to throw. He finally tagged Bessemer midway between second and third and Armstrong grounded weakly to Morse, ending the frame.

NOT PLAYING REGULAR GAME

Brainerd Lost Championship Game
Because of Errors and Inability to Hit the Ball

(Little Falls Transcript)

The state championship game was played Sunday at Lexington park between Stillwater and Brainerd, and the Stillwater team came out with a 3-1 over the northern team. Stillwater won the championship, but it was won from a team which surely was not playing its regular game.
Brainerd played a game that was not worthy of her past performances, and the game was lost because of errors and inability to hit the ball.

Diedrich made the first score for Brainerd. The first man up, he nick-ed one for a base, went to second on a sacrifice and scored on Pratt's double. From that time on the Brainerd band played anything that was played in a meritorious manner.
Woods was hit, but that is incidental to a ball game, and if he had been backed by a crew of hitters, the result might have been different. As it was, he was jerked in the second inning.

Patterson held Stillwater scoreless for the remainder of the game.
Morse, the opposing pitcher, was lucky in pinches, at one time particularly, when a Brainerd batter hit and ran two men off bases with the result that any possible score was shot off at a time when a hit meant a run.

About 500 Brainerd people accompanied the team to the cities. The special train returned attached to No. 11. Several local people also went down. The 32 piece municipal band of Brainerd accompanied the team.

Satisfaction in Doing Right.

Imagination is the father and mother of trouble when we let it run loose in a time of stress. But in the end the will and the heart are what determine our fate. After all, when we do right we have some satisfaction even if we suffer. But if we do nothing but drift along we have not even the satisfaction of knowing we deserve to come out right.

Have Points in Common.

It is the general understanding that there are all kinds of people in the world, but at times we get the notion that they are all exactly alike, at that.

Camel Cigarettes

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO.
Winston-Salem, N. C.

CAMELS are a cigarette revelation! They are a smoke delight! They answer the cigarette question as it has never before been answered. Your taste will prove that!

Camels are an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos which you will greatly prefer to either kind of tobacco smoked straight. Your test proves that!

This expert blend brings out Camels' wonderful cigarette qualities. It eliminates any unpleasant cigarettey aftertaste or any unpleasant cigarette odor! It also makes possible Camels' enticing mildness while retaining the full
"body" of the tobaccos.

No matter how much you like Camels and how liberally you smoke them, they will not tire your taste!

For your own satisfaction compare Camels with any cigarette in the world at any price!

It Will Pay You to Advertise in the Dispatch

What Is Your Daily Newspaper?

A reporter of important events at home and abroad. It is that and more.

It is a directory of buying and selling.

It is the medium that brings together the man who has merchandise or a service, or anything else to sell--and the man who needs and want these things.

By reading the advertisements in your newspaper you may find what you want with the least expense and in the least time.

And they may point out the fact that you needed many things the lack of which you never realized until you got them.

These benefits might never have been yours without the newspaper advertisement which first brought your need to your attention.

Read the advertisements in the newspapers regularly and thoroughly.
